

东南康州中文学校之窗

- On December 16th, SCCS successfully held the 7th Chinese Speech Contest. Please see the poem on the page 2 and photos of on the page 2 and 3.
- On December 16th, SCCS held an appreciation night at the Orchards Clubhouse in East Lyme, CT. Over eighty SCCS teachers, PTA leadership and school board members, their spouses and children attended the event. SCCS principal, Mr. Raymond Chen, and chair of the school board, Ms. Xiaoning Wang, spoke at the event to thank all the teachers for their hard work and all PTA and the school board members for their support.
- SCCS began its spring semester on Sunday, January 6, 2013.

Community News

- According to Chinese lunar calendar, February 10th is the beginning of the New Year - the Year of Snake. SECCCS will hold a celebration event at East Lyme Middle School from 12 pm to 5 pm, on February 9th. Please register through the online form. There will be a cooking contest called "Taste of East Lyme." You are welcome to register as a Gourmet Chef.
- The Asian Influenced Art Exhibit will take place in Stonington, Connecticut, from February 8 to March 24. Chinese and American artists who have been influenced by Chinese Culture will get together to display their art works. The artists will demonstrate their skills on March 17. Some teachers and students of SCCS will participate in this event and demonstrate their talents.
- Ms. Yanqiao Xiang, one of SCCS teachers, has begun her new career in Boston. Congratulations!
- On Sep. 27, 2011, two young violinists, Ms. LiLi Zhong and Ms. Julie Tan led by Mr. Bi, were invited by the Backus Hospital multicultural committee. They performed the famous piece <The butterfly> at the Annual Multicultural Fair at Backus Hospital. The beautiful musical drew great attention from the audience who loved the performance and praised them heartily.
(Ms. Yinyu Tu)

Editor: Dehua Chen

Editors: Yinyu Tu
Raymond Chen
Liurong Luo

English Editors:
Karen Giugno
Lili Yang

Technical Editor:
Hua Zhong

Southeastern Connecticut
Chinese School
Phone: 860-884-9990
WWW.CTSCCS.ORG

Reflections at the Year's End

The first snow of the year came early. However, there were no more snowflakes falling until the second day after the proposed end-of-the-world day. This reminded me of the words of an old song: "The first snow in 2002 came later than in the past..." I was still in China when the song was popular all over China then. Quite a few years have passed since I came abroad. Looking at the dried branches and the withered grass, I recalled the loneliness and hopelessness I felt when I first came to US. Fortunately, I found SCCS, and hence regained a sense of belonging.

In southeastern Connecticut, there is a Chinese community – a group of warm-hearted people. We just held a Chinese speech contest on the last Sunday; and in the evening of the same day, we met at the SCCS Teacher's Appreciation Night – a night full of laughter and delicious food. The Chinese dishes were quite spicy, the Southeastern Asian Momochacha was so tasty, and the French Buch was very sweet. What a memorable night we had!

At the same time, we felt sad to see a few colleagues leaving. It was not the last dinner, but it was still a moment of sadness to say goodbye to those whom we worked with at SCCS. We also missed a few colleagues and friends who couldn't come due to various reasons. To them, we say "Please take good care of yourself."

To all friends, colleagues, and students of SCCS, we wish you a peaceful and healthy life! (Ms. Liurong Luo)

12/16/2012 Teacher's Appreciation Night

come with me to set foot on this little boat

- Thoughts after Watching SCCS Chinese Speech Contest

Do not say the stage is not big enough
Do not say the lights are not bright enough
Do not say my clothing is not stylish enough
Do not say my speech is not fluent enough
No, not to mention my voice has a "foreign" accent
I am telling an ancient legend using the "root" language
I am sowing hope from my parents' generation with my young hands
I am lighting many "little lights" with my heart
I am carrying the ideal of two generations on my tender shoulder
I am a banner, a beam of sunlight
Passionate, bright, brave, and strong
Full of vitality and blazing with colors
Come with me to set foot on the little boat
To embrace the East, to embrace the Sun

(Ms. Lili Ma)

Benjamin Xie, Christine Jahn, and Victoria Chen

I Want to Be a Principal

Chinese 3A To Eat Or Not to Eat

Photos of Chinese Speech Contest

Joanna Chen Travel to Hangzhou

*Connor Riordan
Meditations Over Jingling Ruins*

Daphnie Lu Spring Messenger

Jiarui Peng, Mingwen Duan The Eggs

Stephen Lee It's Juice, Not Fry-dough.

Summer Sit , Arianna Xie
The Joyful Snowflake

Sophia Sit,,Maple Siu,Andrew Bertrand, Hazel Siu,Isabella Zheng
Grandpa Sun

Hanna Hong Farewell

Grace Kulas
Little Brother and Little Kitty

Paul Chang, Ryan Xu Speech Contest Host

Paul Huang, William Huang My Family

Eric Wu Speech Contest Host