Teaching Philosophy: Learn Chinese through direct character recognition first, then Pinyin; learn to read before write; reading of textbook and supplementary materials given equal weight; leverage both paper and digital homework.

End of the year goals:

Can read at least 60% of the new characters (total new characters in Book 1 is 305).

Can recite all texts fluently.

Can independently read most of the supplementary reading materials included in the textbook.

Note: MLP Book 1 does not include Pinyin instruction.

Best fit for: Students who completed Jinan University textbook Grades 1–3 last year and are looking to expand their Chinese reading volume.

Placement test: Students must be able to recognize approximately 10% of the characters on the character list (about 30 characters — see character list) and be able to read independently and fluently a text from last year's Jinan University textbook that they have already studied. Each student is required to pay an additional $80 material fee upon registration, covering: textbook, workbook, character flashcards, online homework access code, and summer assignments.
